

WATHA CASE IS NEARING THE FINISH

Arguments Have Started in First of the Murder Trials

PROS. SMYTHE OPENS

Is Followed by Attorney King for Defense—Jury May Get Case Today.

Before the evening adjournment of Common Pleas court Wednesday counsel for both state and defendant in the Watha murder case, made under the law, requests to Judge Mansfield for special charges to the jury before the argument in the case began. The defense made twenty-eight such requests and the state five.

At 9 o'clock Thursday when court opened Judge Mansfield took these requests up and made a ruling upon the matter, before the jury was called into court, and asked counsel if they wanted to be heard or cite authorities favoring their contentions.

The judge stated that he would refuse thirteen out of the twenty-eight and Mr. Flory said that he would like to be heard, especially in regard to several which he mentioned.

The attorneys in the case argued pro and con regarding these requests and the jury was called and the case proceeded.

These requests were technical in their nature and the jury was not allowed to hear the argument of counsel.

Before the case proceeded Judge Mansfield again made an order with instructions to the bailiffs to enforce the same, that every one inside the bar rail, except attorneys and officers of the court, should be excluded from this area.

Theodore Weitenbach, manager of the Warden Hotel, was called by the state upon agreement by counsel that Mr. Weitenbach, who was in Columbus Wednesday, should take the stand Thursday morning.

"Was manager of the Warden July 4th last?"

By Mr. Miller: "Did you discharge this defendant on July 4th last?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why?"

Objected to by Judge Littleford, who contended that the answer was incompetent and that the answer was as to collateral matter and had nothing to do with Watha's testimony, and that Mr. Miller's contention that Mr. Weitenbach's testimony was competent to impeach Watha as a witness, was not well taken, and that every little indiscretion in his life could not be introduced so as to effect his credibility.

Mr. Miller argued that the defendant had voluntarily placed his character for peace and quietness in issue, and that he had laid the foundation for his question to Mr. Weitenbach on Wednesday when he asked Watha whether he was not discharged for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, to which he had answered in the negative, and that now the state had the right to show the unreliability or incredibility of the witness.

Judge Littleford again argued that the way for the state to get at this matter was to put witnesses on the stand to state positively that the witness was of bad character, or could not be believed under oath, especially when the witness had bias, prejudice, or interest.

Mr. Miller answered that he wanted to impeach the defendant by the witness, Mr. Weitenbach, and that he was not attempting to prove character, but Watha's credibility and that he did not tell the truth on the stand.

Judge Mansfield sustained the objection of the defense and witness was not allowed to answer and was excused.

The state wished to recall Norton Suter but Judge Littleford objected on the ground that counsel for the state had agreed to put on only one more witness, Mr. Weitenbach, but Mr. Suter was called in the furtherance of justice.

He was examined by Mr. Smythe.

"Saw defendant and heard him make a speech?"

"Was Watha forced upon the rock and to make a speech?"

Objected to by the defense on the ground that this was a conclusion on the part of the witness.

Mr. Smythe withdrew the question.

"Did you see any one aid or assist Watha or dictating to him what to say?"

Objected to by defense but objection overruled.

"Saw no one help him up to the rock or dictate to him what to say or hold him up on the rock; his speech and gestures appeared to me to be of his own free will; saw no one holding him upon the stone; was within eight feet of him; heard no one suggest to defendant what he should do or say."

Cross-examined by Judge Littleford as to his examination in chief.

"Don't know if he was put up or not; only heard him make one remark; don't know if he got down and was put back on the rock by the crowd; was at the Home Building Association when I first saw defendant's head; heard him make one remark and then left."

The state closed the rebuttal testimony at 12:15 and the court charged the jury before the argument as per request of the state that any one who aids, abets, or procures a criminal act is equally guilty as the principal offender, and then gave a legal definition of the words aid, abet or procure.

The judge then gave the charges requested by defendant, which had not been overruled. Among them being a definition of "reasonable doubt."

Adjourned until 1 o'clock when argument was to begin.

The argument in the Watha murder case began Thursday afternoon at 1:10 o'clock. Prosecuting Attorney Phil B. Smythe opening the case for the state. Neither side is limited and the order of argument was decided to be as follows: Mr. Smythe, "Squire T. L. King, Charles Flory, Judge Littleford, the last three for the defense, and Assistant Attorney General Miller will close the case for the state.

Mr. Smythe said: "If the court please, and gentlemen of the jury: Never in your recollection nor in mine has a case of the importance of the present one been submitted to the decision of a court and jury in Licking county. I would like to impress upon the court that Carl Etherington was murdered. Who did it? Was it the man who pulled the rope? Was it the man who boosted him off his feet?"

"No; and the proposition I would like to impress is that every man who had anything to do with any event leading up to his lynching is guilty as a principal, and not as an aider or abettor; that the death of Etherington was due to the collective efforts of all who did or said anything which led up to his death; and any one who incited or encouraged a mob is guilty of the homicide and should be punished accordingly. No homicide is collateral to the forming of a mob, or a riot, but each and every man who contributed in any degree to the accomplishment of Etherington's death is guilty of his murder. No one man killed him but his murder was the result of the combined efforts of all who engaged in the riot of the evening of July 8th.

"Had the defendant not done what he did; if the man who placed the rope about his neck had not done what he did; if the man who climbed the pole and put the rope over the peg had not done what he did; Carl Etherington would not have been killed; but he is dead and I contend, gentlemen, that each of these men is guilty of his death in an equal degree."

"Testimony has been adduced going to show that Watha on that day asked a man of his own race how many revolvers he had; and yet he gets on the witness stand and tells you that he did not know what the crowd at the jail intended to do. If you believe this statement you are indeed prejudiced."

"You know that he got on an elevation and urged the crowd to 'come on, are you game,' and like remarks, which incited the already inflamed crowd to do what they did, namely to murder Etherington."

"He tells you that he was forced to make the speech which he did, that he was dictated to as to what he should say, but the testimony of Suter and other witnesses is to the effect that there was no such coercion on the part of the crowd. He knew that the crowd was at the jail because Carl Etherington was there confined, and

SURPRISE DEBATE AT MANSFIELD

At Last Moment Pomerene Invites Hanley to Share the Stage

CHEERS FOR CANDIDATES

Aspiring to Senatorial Toga Were Impartial and Both Made Good Impression.

Mansfield, Dec. 15.—Triumphant in the thought that after weeks of weary effort he at last had been able to present his cause to the people, Edward W. Hanley, of Dayton, last night made an eloquent appeal and defense for and of his candidacy for the United States senatorship.

It was an unfamiliar, though not unsympathetic, audience he faced. Having the opening his opponent, Lieutenant Governor Alcee Pomerene, gifted in speech and graceful in presentation, seemed to have won the favor of the throng.

The audience was not responsive at the start to the pleadings, the defenses and the attacks of the Dayton candidate, but he gradually won its affections, and when the climax came in his review of his lowly boyhood and his hard fight upward from the foundry to the public service company office of trust, all coldness vanished and the crowded theatre shook with the thunders of approving cheers.

Grasping the opportunity his native and rugged eloquence was employed further to get deeper into the affections of his hearers, and when the debate ended it may be said in all fairness that he had gained as much as his adversary in whose interest the meeting had been called.

This was indicated by the division of applause and by the remarks that floated up from 2,000 persons who had listened with attention to the forensic battle as they passed out into the night.

The general verdict was that a complete answer had been made to the charges that have been hurled against him since the day when his candidacy first was announced, and have been repeated daily since that time. These he took up categorically and discussed, making full and apparently frank replies and meeting the severe, though politely couched, strictures of his hard-fighting adversary.

Beyond question the most sensational of these replies was found in the defense of the charge that as chairman of the state central committee he had conspired to prevent the endorsement of a candidate for the United States senatorship at the early meeting of that body and at the Dayton state convention.

Charged with having committed a piece of personal rivalry, he declared that it was with the full knowledge of Governor Judson Harmon that the state committee took that action, and that the chief executive read and approved the resolutions at the state convention which omitted this requirement, before they were submitted to the delegates. Having stated the facts, he demanded to know if his critics also proposed to criticize the governor of the state and the titular leader of the Democratic party in Ohio.

This audacious uncovering of the secrets of the party caused many of his hearers to gasp, but when he defended the action of both the governor and the committee they broke into cheers.

There were other sensational utterances but none more impressive than the one just recited.

The next in importance was his attack upon the hypocrisy of assailing a candidate because of his occupation. Supporting it, in witty and laughter-provoking language, he added the fact that Lieutenant Governor-elect Pomerene was a stockholder and director in a national bank that he and his partner, Judge-elect A. W. Sutherland, were the attorneys for the Federal branch of the Safe trust and that they also were the attorneys for a telephone company owned by J. Pierpont Morgan. Mr. Shields being its vice president.

In words that had a tinge of sarcasm he declared that his opponent was not to be criticized for these things for they are ways to prove that he was a good business man and a competent attorney.

This epochal occurrence in the politics of Ohio took place in the presence of an audience that was remarkable for its fairness. The crowd devotion was pressed, and while each man had his partisan taken, indeed, observation showed that both the contenders were cheered impartially by the bulk of their hearers as they made their points and hammered home their arguments. In the end cheers were given alike for both candidates and they shared in a general reception upon the stage, handshakes pressing forward to shake their hands.

The debate itself came as a surprise. It was not until late in the afternoon that it became known that it was an accomplished fact. The sudden determination of Lieutenant Governor-elect Pomerene to invite Mr. Hanley to the oratorical combat was reached at the capital only a few moments before the journey to this city was begun, and the citizens of Mansfield had no knowledge of the skillful maneuvering at Columbus that produced this result.

Because of this fact there was a shift in the arrangements. Instead of a partisan Pomerene meeting, the gathering was made neutral, and County Chairman Fred M. Bushnell was substituted as the presiding officer, as the representative of the party in Richland county. Despite the shortness of the notice, the Memorial theatre was crowded when, attended by their committees, the speakers came upon the stage to begin the opening of their momentous campaign. Through agreement made in advance, Mr. Pomerene was given an opening of 45 minutes. Mr. Hanley was allotted an hour for reply and Mr. Pomerene an additional 15 minutes for rejoinder.

MORE JOINT DEBATES.

Columbus, Dec. 15.—Pomerene and Hanley will debate at New Philadelphia tonight and at Kent tomorrow night. The New Philadelphia bill was billed as a straight Pomerene meeting and he asked Hanley to meet him there. Two meetings were scheduled at Kent for tomorrow and Hanley suggested they be combined into a debate.

CARNEGIE MILLIONS FOR PEACE

Gives Ten Millions in Five Per Cent First Mortgage Bonds

A TOTAL OF $180,000,000

In Benefactions by Steel King, Which Outstrips John D. Rockefeller.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Surrounded by 27 trustees of his choosing, comprising former cabinet members, ambassadors, college presidents, law years and educators, Andrew Carnegie yesterday transferred $10,000,000 in 5 per cent first mortgage bonds, value $11,500,000, to be devoted primarily to the establishment of universal peace by the abolition of war between nations and such friction as may impair "the progress and happiness of man."

When wars between nations shall have ceased, the fund is to be applied to such altruistic purposes as will "best help man in his glorious ascent onward and upward," by the "banishment of the most degrading evil or evils" then harassing mankind.

As Mr. Carnegie read an informal deed of trust announcing at length the general purpose of this gift, there was prolonged applause. He then explained the incidents which inspired the giving of the money at this time and declared with emphasis that if the English-speaking race in the United States and Great Britain once consolidated in the movement for international peace, the success of the measure in the rest of the world would be assured. That Great Britain stood ready to co-operate with this country Mr. Carnegie said he felt certain, and all that was now needed, he said, was the concurrence of the president and the senate in promulgating the movement on behalf of the United States.

A resolution of thanks was presented by Joseph H. Choate, former United States ambassador to Great Britain, which was adopted, and John L. Cadwalader of New York proposed that a committee of seven be appointed to consider the subject of the organization of the body of trustees, the form of charter to be obtained and other details of organization. This was likewise adopted. Senator Elihu Root of New York was unanimously elected permanent chairman and James Barry Scott, solicitor of the state department, was chosen permanent secretary of the board of trustees until a more definite organization shall have been effected.

Mr. Carnegie declined to be included in the future organization of the board of trustees.

Exactly what purpose will be served by the gift of $11,500,000 and its estimated annual income of $500,000, none of the trustees could say, as the whole project had been brought forward under the most general terms, leaving wide discretion and comprehension to the trustees in the fulfillment of the premises of the gift. Coming only a day prior to the opening session of the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, an organization which is co-operating with Secretary Knox in the movement for the final establishment of a court of arbitral justice, there is good basis for the assertion that the newly created fund commission will lend such aid to the project as will be incident to the accomplishment of world-wide peace through judicial channels.

One of the members of the board of trustees said last night that it was certain that the new commission which has yet to choose a name will consider the question of international al harmony much more deeply than a mere glorification throughout the world of investigation and so far as possible scientific research will be effected in promoting the movement. The large fund makes it possible, for the first time, to make a thorough inquiry into the benefits of peace.

"Specific causes," he said "will be the ramifications which usually bring on big wars. But above all it is not a diplomatic matter. It is a private undertaking, which eventually will receive the support of states."

It is known that Mr. Carnegie will explain further the purposes of his gift at the opening session of the American Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes tonight. His subject will be "The Moral Issue of War." Secretary of State Knox originally was to have presided at the meeting and President Taft likewise was to have attended, but a confusion as to the hour of the meeting has made it impossible for either the president or Secretary Knox to be present, because President Taft had arranged to give a cabinet dinner on the same evening. James Brown Scott, president of the society, will preside, and Joseph H. Choate and Andrew L. Monroe, former governor of Virginia, who are trustees of the new peace fund, also will make addresses.

INJURED LAD IS IMPROVING AT HOSPITAL

The condition of little Joe Adams, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, residing about a mile and a half from Newark, who was so seriously injured last Friday, shows improvement.

The lad was rushing out of the school yard when he collided with a horse and buggy, the shaft of the vehicle penetrating the right eye and badly lacerating the eyelid and the face. The force of the contact threw the boy to the ground. The lad was taken home Friday evening and brought to the City Hospital where Dr. C. S. Morse operated on him. The right eye was practically cut away from the nose straight across and had to be sewed on and the eye was so badly injured that the sight will probably be lost.

The child suffered intensely and on Tuesday another operation was performed from which he rallied nicely and his condition today shows him resting much easier.

GREATLY EXAGGERATED.

Officials at the City hospital greatly regret the exaggeration given the above case by an evening paper other than the Advocate and deny all responsibility for the story, stating that had it emanated from them the true facts would have been given when the accident occurred last week.

ARREST OF LUPTON IS PREVENTED

Wronged Girl Would Not Sign Mayor Sidell's Warrant

GIFT OF TONGUE LEADER

Gave Bond to Appear in Court When Called at Alliance.

Alliance, O., Dec. 15.—Apostle Levi Lupton seems to have the authorities here log tied.

Following the refusal of both his wife and Miss Corlette to prosecute him he appeared personally today before the mayor and gave bond that Miss Corlette's child shall not become a public charge. Mayor Speidel says this is all he can do under the circumstances. Mrs. Lupton says there is no reason why Miss Corlette and her child cannot stay in her home where she can care for both. Miss Corlette says she has the baby and loves him and has forgiven Lupton. The members of the colony still remain obdurate however, and steps will probably be taken today to depose.

Alliance, O., Dec. 15.—Miss Mamie Corlette of Cleveland, disciple of the Gift of Tongues cult, late last evening prevented the arrest of Rev. Levi Lupton, founder of the religious sect and father of her two-months-old child, by refusing to sign a warrant presented to her by Mayor Sidell, despite the fact that Lupton issued a public confession and prayed forgiveness of his flock for his sin.

Lupton must appear before Mayor Sidell Friday, however, to give bond for appearance in court at any time he may be called upon to guarantee that the colony will not be burdened with the child's support.

When Sidell and a police officer called at the Mission Home yesterday afternoon Lupton questioned the mayor's authority. "I intend to stand on my rights," he declared.

Convinced finally of Sidell's authority, he called Miss Corlette, who appeared in the reception room with the baby in her arms. She acknowledged the "Gift of Tongues" apostle as the father of her child, but firmly refused to consider any action against him.

"I want no trouble raised over this whatever," she said. "I have enough property in Cleveland to insure that he shall never become a charge on the public."

Miss Corlette seemed callous regarding the publicity brought on her by Lupton's confession. She laughed and played with the baby while refusing to act as Mayor Sidell suggested. Lupton wept when Sidell questioned if this was the first case of the kind in the Mission Home. "Before God and man, it is," the minister declared, sobbing.

Lupton said the future of Miss Corlette and the baby was as yet undetermined. "They may remain here at the Mission Home or may go later to her family in Cleveland," he said.

Lupton's wife and Miss Corlette refused to sign with him a second statement which he issued. With the authorities considering criminal action against Lupton and the mother of Miss Corlette calling for her to come back to her home in Cleveland, the Apostle in his second letter begged for the confidence of his neighbors and business friends.

That Lupton was alarmed by the avowal of his most prominent disciples in Alliance that they would never again reinstate him as their leader, was made evident through the letter. Some of his followers openly declared that Lupton should be forced to turn over to the cult the Mission Home property and money gained since he originated the creed.

"Levi will have to step down and out and get into some other business. It's too bad, but he has lost his job," thus spoke Rev. John Float, pastor of the Tabernacle church, Pittsburg, which is the Pittsburg headquarters of the "Gift of Tongues." The one thing superstitious in Levi's mind, said Rev. Float, "is not forgiveness, but a desire to be reinstated in good standing as the head of the church. We had some of the best girls in the country at that mission, but their parents have now

IDENTITY OF MURDERED GIRL ESTABLISHED BY HER FATHER

Columbus, Dec. 15.—After the woman whose dead body was found here yesterday had been identified by her father as Florence Baer, of Grove City, the police this morning arrested Levi Cordray, a farm hand, who admitted he was a lover of the dead woman. He proved by his employer that he had not left the farm since Sunday. Later the police arrested Frank C. Welker, a business college teacher, who was known to have been acquainted with the girl. He denies all knowledge of how she came to her death and claims he has not seen her for two weeks.

The police are still trying to trace the buggy which made the tracks to the spot where the body was found.

Later in the day both suspects were released as there alibis were substantiated by the police. The police have made further progress toward a solution of the mystery.

COUNTY OFFICERS NOT AFFECTED

By Census of 1910, According to Ruling of Attorney-General Deussen on Salary Question.

Columbus, O., Dec. 12.—Candidates for office who were elected at the last election, so far as their coming under the county officers' salary law are concerned, will be somewhat disappointed at the opinion of Attorney-General Deussen today. In his opinion to the State Bureau of Public Accounting it is held that the salaries of all such officers shall be based upon the population of 1900 instead of 1910.

The county salary law provides that the compensation of the officials is to be regulated by the population in accordance with the census next preceding the election. The preceding officials were elected on November 8, but the census was not made until November 22.

It is understood that the members of the State Accounting Bureau have an entirely different view as have also quite a number of recently elected officials, and the courts may have to pass upon the subject.

Life Insurance or Death Insurance—Which?

"People willingly pay large sums for life insurance, which is really death insurance; but real life insurance frequently consists in taking Eckman's Alternative."

Can any "lung sick" person afford not to take the Alternative?

It sharpens the appetite, makes life less different, brings better health with greater earning power, often persons are so much improved that they can work even before they are fully cured. Investigate it, you are broad minded enough to believe that there can be a cure for Consumption which has not been sensationally exaggerated, or which is not based merely on climatic or diet restrictions. Mr. Webb's report follows:—

Gentlemen: "During 1909 my physician sent me to Texas, from there to Colorado. I became worse and was sent home to die. I heard of Eckman's Alternative, began treatment and was cured. I earnestly recommend Eckman's wonderful cure for Consumption."

LUPTON

Lupton had announced last night that to convince the public that his wife had "fully and freely forgiven" him, and that Miss Corlette believed the Lord had "washed away the stain of their sin," as he said in his first statement, they would sign the second statement. Later he acknowledged the two women had refused, saying they objected to injecting themselves personally into the affair.

Lupton threatened all who did not forgive him within a year with eternal damnation. He said that the end of the world was coming within a year; that Christ again would walk on earth. Then, changing his tactics toward the disciples who did not jump at complying with his request for forgiveness and restoration to high grace, he said: "All who bear any evil toward us in their hearts at that dread day, all who have not forgiven as they themselves will wish to be forgiven, will be cast into hell fire forever. Let them beware and prepare themselves for the coming of Christ."

Lupton in his second statement says: "To My Neighbors and Business Friends of Alliance and Surrounding Communities: When I wrote the letter Tuesday I had no thought it would be published. However, after further consideration, circumstances seemed to change, and I gave my consent. Since it was addressed more particularly to my workers in the Gospel, I felt it would be only fitting to follow that letter with a few words to my business friends and neighbors."

"As I well know, there are other courses which might have been pursued, but as a man of God, having some knowledge of His Word, there was but one course, to my mind, which would fully reach the demands of the Scriptures and bring rest to my spirit. That was to pursue a safe course by way of confession."

"Others may be able to live with things covered, but I am frank to confess that I cannot and still propose to follow Jesus Christ. I come direct to my neighbors and business friends and ask their forgiveness, and to be restored to their confidence."

"My fall has been great and my heart and life have been greatly crushed. I feel it much better to meet this thing here and now than to meet it at the judgment, when I would be eternally too late. I have lived in this community more than ten years and have sought to go in and out before men as a true Christian. My only desire above all others is to continue such a walk."

"Our work at the Missionary Home is suspended for the present, and at this time I am clear as to my future course concerning it. Very likely we shall make no move at least before the time to open school for another year. I thoroughly desire the prayers of all who pray. Faithfully yours, Levi R. Lupton."

YOUNG MAN STAY WEST

After twenty years absence from my native town of Newark, Ohio, which is known to traveling men, as the pretty town with a court house in the center, I have a message to give to the rising generation. In this age of great commercial enterprises and concentration of individual interests into corporations, there is a tendency to eliminate the great middle class in our large cities, whereby a man with moderate means has no chance whatever of making a business venture unless he has unlimited capital to get in on the ground floor on the purchasing problems. My experience for the past twenty years, as an employee, merchant and promoter of various enterprises, has entailed upon me much time, expense and concentration of thoughts, to properly carry out the duties devolved upon me.

My advice to the young man of Newark is, first, acquire a good education; second, look well to your character; third, keep away from the big cities.

Grown up with your home town, where you have pure air to breathe, open fields for exercise, and fresh food to sustain the body. The adulteration of food became so unbearable that Congress had to enact the Pure Food Laws, of 1906.

The temptations in a large city are many; life in the tenements is a disgrace to our American Republic, and everyone knows the corruption that exists in public office by our chosen servants. Call it graft, if you choose. If I read the signs of the times aright, there are three great problems looming above the horizon; first, corporations under government control; second, municipal ownership; third Socialism.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission at Washington, D. C., is now giving attention to our large corporations. Municipal ownership has advanced somewhat in several of our cities, but it remained for the citizens of Milwaukee, Wis., to put to a practical test the theory of Socialism by the election of the now Mayor Berger.

Well may this nation of ours be called the Child of Providence, for it has certainly prospered since we have been at peace.

JOHN W. KNUPPER,

LONG HOURS FOR CLERKS IN POSTOFFICE

Conditions as to hours of labor for clerks in postoffices have become so bad that the United States National Association of Postoffice clerks assembled in convention this year decided by unanimous vote that their greatest and most urgent need is the establishment of a legal eight-hour day. Postoffice clerks occupy the unique position of being practically the only class of government employees who are not protected by any act of congress limiting in any way their hours.

Why congress should hesitate to enact legislation that would put the postoffice clerks on a par with all other government employees in this respect is hard to understand. The principle of an eight-hour day for government employees is well established. In recent years it has even been extended to cover the employees of private contractors who might be employed on a government contract.

The postoffice department recognizes the justice of the principle, for in its annual reports it recommends to postmasters that eight-hour schedules be arranged for clerks where it is possible to do so.

But the conditions that prevail,

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

It is often hard when Christmas time comes around to think of presents, which, besides carrying with them their message of remembrance and good will, will also prove of real use and bring practical pleasure to our friends. Sometimes, however, it is possible to hit on a gift in the enjoyment of which many can share. A good lamp is one such gift. The Rayo, which is placed on the market by the Standard Oil Company, is a low-priced lamp, but all-important advantages are claimed for it. Opticians unite in condemning the tendency among many readers and workers to sit immediately under a small but strongly concentrated light, and physicians have found it easy to trace a close connection between eye trouble and affections of the head and nerves and even of the digestion.

The light from the Rayo lamp, while clear and bright, is remarkably soft, mellow and diffused. The new burner with which this season's model is fitted gives extra strength and prevents all flickering, so that it does not strain the eyes.

A GOOD COMPLEXION ADDS CHARM TO ANY WOMAN.

Seaver's Laxative Tonic Tablets Will Produce Good Complexions.

Among the many charms for which women are especially noted, not one of them is so quickly recognized and admired as a good complexion.

Every woman regardless of the station she may occupy in society owes it to herself as well as her associates to properly safeguard the beauties with which nature has endowed her.

The inactivity of the liver and bowels is the direct cause of pimples, sallowness, mucky skin and many other blemishes common to a poor complexion.

Seaver's Laxative Tonic Tablets are largely composed of dandelion, and any physician will tell you there is nothing better to create a healthy condition of the skin and complexion. A 25-cent package of these tablets contains enough of the remedy for a fair trial and your money will be cheerfully returned by Erman & Son if you are not greatly benefited by their use.

Do not delay but give Seaver's Laxative Tonic Tablets a fair trial and you will agree that all our claims are absolutely true.

4. By fair and square dealing. From a commercial standpoint, it is not from any higher, it pays to be honest and fair. Treat people squarely, and they will recommend you to others. Treat them unfairly and their criticism will soon saturate the public. ## 'Time's Flight Turned Backward' SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK
COUNTY OF MONROE } ss

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1910.

MOVEMENT FOR REVIVAL OF THE PENSION FUND

A movement is now on foot looking toward the revival of the firemen's pension fund, a sort of mutual benefit association that a few years ago was of considerable prominence. The local fire ladders are considering the movement.

It is understood that the State Fire Chiefs' Association rules have been so amended as to include in the list of eligibles all grades of firemen: chiefs, captains, lieutenants, or drivers, firemen. It is planned to organize the various association branches subsidiary to the central organization in this state, and to provide a firemen's pension and relief fund.

Some years ago there was such a fund in the Newark municipal budget. It amounted to about $500 when it was needed in another fund and legislation effecting the transfer was introduced by one of the councilmen. Should the movement go further here, now, it will probably have to be started perhaps by action of council or by public subscription, or both.

MAZDA THEATRE OPENS DOORS TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Newark's latest motion picture theatre, "The Mazda," was thrown open to the Newark public Wednesday night, and at the opening is any criterion, a most successful season is assured for the theatre.

From an artistic standpoint, the theatre is the most charming of any in the state. The decorative work is beautifully simple and the color effect is perfect. The theatre is owned and will be managed by William Schlegel and the motion picture machine will be operated by Obie Arner. Mr. Schlegel was indeed fortunate in his selection of a machine, for the pictures thrown last night were clear and perfect.

Musical for the theatre will be furnished by Mr. Mitchell, violinist, and Mrs. Fields, pianist. The singer for the illustrated songs is Douglass Robinson.

The theatre was crowded during the entire time it was open last night, and Mr. Schlegel announces that he will especially cater to the women and children.

Dr. Loveless is quite busy. The doctor added a new driver to his list Thursday. He now has two good drivers and an automobile.

Dr. Roberts of Delaware delivered a lecture at the M. E. church Tuesday night on the "Forward Movement," the Methodists are making on behalf of O. W. U. at Delaware.

In Mr. Larison's statement of the 107 turkeys which he bought of Mr. Kilpatrick, which appeared in Friday's paper, he should have stated that he did not buy all they had. They reserved enough for the wedding at Christmas.

The pupils of the Perryton high school gave a surprise call on Miss Hazel Freese Tuesday night and on Friday night made a call on Miss Minerva Baker. These calls were to remind them of their natal day. A very enjoyable evening was passed at each place. They were accompanied by their teacher, Prof. Carr. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holman of Columbus were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Holman over Sunday.

AMUSEMENTS

LAST NIGHT'S SHOW.

In the days of its infancy "The Ited Mill" was touted as a nice bit of musical nonsense properly dressed to meet the occasion and Montgomery and Stone, the real funny men made good in it. However, they seem to have been the only power that was sufficient to cause the old mill to grind material of proper quantity to appeal to the people, for since they left it has always been a trifle below the standard. There is a very small plot and it requires a lot of effort to make it interesting, but the music is good throughout and there are one or two exceptionally pretty numbers, but the present company is able to handle it only fairly well.

Either the chorus really lacked volume or the musical director was soldiering for the effort was a very weak one and many of the numbers were spoiled by the draggy work. The director seemed to make no effort to brighten the numbers and seemed more interested in the technique of his playing than in the work of the chorus.

James Crowley and William Moore have succeeded Montgomery and Stone and some of their stuff was good and some was not so good. The only real voice in the company belonged to A. J. Madder, the "Governor of Zealand" and two of his numbers were worth hearing: "Every Day is Ladies' Day With Me," and "Because You're You."

The first act moved very slowly, but the second suddenly jumped in to betterment and with the several pretty chorus numbers and some specialty work by Crowley and Moore got by very well.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Plays may come and plays may go, but George Broadhurst's greatest of all American plays, "The Man of the Hour" which patrons of the Auditorium will see again on Saturday, Dec. 17, is one of those plays that, once seen, is never forgotten. Though new in its fourth year of phenomenal success, it is still playing everywhere to packed houses and achieving that just need of recognition which it deserves. Its managers have provided a new scenic production this season and will send their special company here for this engagement of two performances, matinee and night.

HYDE'S THEATRE PARTY.

Patrons of the popular priced drama have a solid week's enjoyment in view. That best of all repertoire organizations, "Hyde's Theatre Party," will begin an engagement at the Auditorium next Monday and will present an entirely new play Monday at both performances. In fact, none need look for the old threadbare dramas among any of those to be given by this fine company next week. They have come to be known as the "Somewhat different" company from the fact that their plays are all new and are presented in a manner that would do credit to an attraction playing at five times the moderate prices to be charged next week. Last season hundreds were turned away from the Auditorium on their opening night, so get your seats early. Seat sale opens Saturday at 9 a. m.

THE ORPHEUM.

See that musical farce comedy, "The Rajah of Bhong," at the popular Arcade play house this week. An extra good show full of clean and refined comedy, pretty girls, funny comedians, plenty of good singing and dancing. One of the features is the "Merry Mades," introducing their great electrical novelty, "The Bathing Girls," with special scenery. The principle comedian, "Omega," Mr. James T. Crowley, who is the original of the Omega trip, assisted by Mr. Ed Barnes, that clever Irish comedian late of the Keith and Proctor circuit, are the fun makers and keep the audience in an uproar from the rise of the curtain until it falls. This is the show that not only makes the manager smile, but makes everybody happy. You can't afford to miss this one. Orpheumscope always has a feature film.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50. Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in gualic acid and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GENEROUS AMERICA

RED CROSS RELIEF OPERATIONS WORLD-WIDE IN 1910.

Earthquake, Fire, Flood, Explosion, Hurricane, War and Massacre Called for Aid.

Six big disasters will occur in the United States in 1911. This is not the prediction of an astrologer, but of the American Red Cross, the organization which conducts a larger work of relief among people stricken by great calamities than any other agency in the world. Experience has led the Red Cross to expect an average of five or six serious disasters in this country every year. It does not know when or where they will occur, or whether they will be caused by storm, or fire, or flood, or earthquake, or explosion. But it is sure that they will happen, just as one may be sure that 15 persons out of every thousand now living will die in the next 12 months.

World-wide reports presented at the recent national meeting of the American Red Cross in Washington. This organization, of which President Taft is the president, is recognized by the federal government as the official channel for the conduct of relief work wherever in the United States people suffer from the results of great calamities. But the Red Cross does not confine itself to relief operations in this country. Its field is the world.

Experience proves not only that an average of five or six disasters severe enough to call for Red Cross help may be expected to occur every year in the United States, but that the demands from other countries may be expected to be equally numerous. Some idea of the character and variety of these demands may be gained from the disasters with which the Red Cross dealt in the last twelve months. These included, in the United States, one hurricane, one mine fire, two mine explosions and forest fires in Idaho, Montana, Washington and Minnesota; in foreign countries, relief of starving captured soldiers in Nicaragua, floods in Mexico, France, Serbia and Japan, the Armenian massacres and the earthquake in Costa Rica.

In the disasters above mentioned which occurred in the United States 506 lives were lost, while, approximately, 7,500 persons required immediate assistance. About 400,000 persons lost their homes by fire or hurricane. The money expended by the Red Cross in these relief operations in the United States was $100,000 and in foreign countries, $60,500, a total of $160,500. Other relief funds expended in this country in conjunction with those of the Red Cross and according to its plans and methods amounted to $218,000, making the grand total relief expenditures of the year under Red Cross leadership $480,500.
